

The Companion GENERAL PURPOSE
TROUT FLY ROD

An indispensable little rod for those who prefer to use lighter lines. It casts a dry fly with gratifying accuracy; it will throw as long a line as most anglers like to fish—and yet, it is gentle enough to fish the wet fly or nymph with all the delicacy you want.

Its strength is deceptive, though. If you're not familiar with our material and construction methods, you may think its action too easy, but get a line moving through the air and you will be satisfied that the action is just right.

Companion—Sections: 2. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: snake. Winch fittings: screw lock. Lengths: 9'. Lines: 5-6. 8' 6". Lines: 5. 8'. Lines: 5.

The True Brook FLY ROD

The TRUE BROOK is built for short, delicate casts with the finest lines in restricted spaces, it has plenty of through-action to get the necessary tip velocity from the smallest wrist movement. It is ideal for holding strong fighting fish on fine leaders.

It's right at home when casting a dry fly accurately under low, overhanging branches, where the line is inches above the water. Or when you fish the wet fly upstream in tiny stickles. TRUE BROOK will always give you the best possible sport from the quarry you're after.

The Highlander FLY ROD

Lighter sister of the Silver Stream. 12'. 3-piece. Line: AFTM No. 6. Sea Trout and Grisle fly rod for the traditional style of fishing for Sea Trout on Highland Lochs with a double-headed rod and fine line. There is the necessary through action for leisurely casting and the delicate placing of the line on the water.

It is noteworthy, however, that due to the compound taper construction in this most suitable of materials, there is a complete absence of the top-heavy feeling that was associated with the old rods used for this purpose.

For a rod with such a gentle action, it has indeed quite a crisp feeling. It is a little more than half the weight of its predecessors.

The effect of all this on the sport to be had with a lively Sea Trout is nothing less than a revelation.

The Cairngorm SALMON FLY ROD

14' 6". 3-piece. Line: AFTM No. 9 or 10.

Designed specially for fishing the floating line on the big pools of the major rivers, where long rods are essential for the most efficient coverage of the water. Although the rod is extremely light and sufficiently sensitive in action for the use of fine leaders and small flies, it nevertheless has enough power for conventional sunk-line fishing.

The CAIRNGORM handles as nicely as much shorter rods, yet it is outstandingly good for both Spey casting and overhead casting. Indeed a short trial will undoubtedly conform that its performance is nothing less than superb.
